

Australian Association for Infant Mental Health

AAIMHI Victoria Ann Morgan Prize

Ann Morgan Prize - Notes for entrants

The writing must be original and not previously published.

Subject of the writing must elucidate or offer new understanding of the infant's experience.

The ideas presented must be engaging, well explained and present a coherent experience for the reader.

The writing must be well crafted.

While not intended as a peer reviewed or referenced article, ideas of others must be clearly acknowledged.

The entry may be presented in any form: prose, poetry or drama.

Must be within the 3,000 word limit.

As long as these criteria are met, there is no expectation that the writing will adhere to any given style.

Any identifying or clinical information must comply with ethical standards